"I see so much beauty in objects and remnants that may have been discarded or seem to have no particular use to most... (other than other collage artists who are packrats such as myself)"

Katherine Brown is a full time collage-assemblage artist from San Antonio, Texas. Her work is very process oriented and creates layers of information within her work, as she compares to how dreams seem to be at times...capturing a touch of the surreal.

Much of Katherine's work is dream inspired...with the sometimes 'choppiness' and alluring nonsense sometimes found in the dream state. Katherine's work has been classified as enigmatic, dancing with old souls, Dada inspired, mysterious and surreal.
